

FRIENDS OF THE BLACK WALNUT

Frank Robinson, executive director of the American Horticultural Society, has suggested the following list of plants that will survive in the shade of the Black Walnut tree.

HERBACEOUS PERENNIALS

Ajuga reptans, bugle weed
Alcea rosea, hollyhock
Axarum europaeum, European wild ginger
Astilbe
Campanula latifolia, bellflower
Chrysanthemum, hardy chrysanthemum
Doronicum, leopard's bane
Dryopteris cristata, crested wood fern
Galium odoratum, sweet woodruff
Geranium sanguineum, hardy geranium or cranesbill
Helianthus tuberosus, Jerusalem artichoke
Hemerocallis fulva, common daylily
Heuchera, coral bells
Hieracium aurantiacum, orange hawkweed
Hosta species
Hydrophyllum virginianum, Virginia waterleaf
Iris sibirica, Siberian Iris
Monarda species, bee balm
Oenothera fruticosa, sundrops or evening primrose
Onoclea sensibilis, sensitive fern
Osmunda cinnamon, cinnamon fern
Phlox paniculata,
Polemonium reptans, Jacob's ladder
Polygonatum commutatum, Solomon's seal
Primula x polyantha
Pulmonaria, lungwort
Sanguinaria Canadensis, bloodroot
Sedum acre, gold moss
Sedum spectabile
Stachys byzantina, lamb's ear
Tradescantia virginiana, spiderwort
Trillium
Uvularia grandiflora,
Viola

BULBS

Chionodoxa luciliae, glory of the snow
Crocus
Endymion hispanicus, Spanish bluebell
Eranthis hyemalis, winter aconite
Galanthus nivalis, snowdrop
Hyacinth
Muscari botryoides, grape hyacinth
Narcissus, daffodil
Scilla sibirica, blue squill
Tulip

TREES

Acer palmatum, Japanese maple
Catalpa
Tsuga Canadensis, Canadian Hemlock

VINES AND SHRUBS

Clematis
Daphne mezereum,
Forsythia
Hibiscus syriacus, Rose of Sharon
Lonicera tatarica, tartarian honeysuckle
Parthenocissus quinquefolia, Virginia creeper
Rhododendron periclymenoides, pinxterbloom
Rhododendron Exbury Hybrids, Gibraltar,
Balzac

ANNUALS

Begonia, fibrous and tuberous
Calendula officinalis, pot marigold
Ipomea, morning glory
Viola and pansy